

Dear Spartans,
We hope this letter finds everyone enjoying family and friends for the holiday season. We are thrilled to be sharing the final Coach's Speak of this year as the 2019 6AII State Champions. Your Spartans completed the "DriVe" for five!

Thanks to everyone that made the drive to support us in the Championship game. For those of you that did, it was probably the best 7 dollars you could spend. We were proud of the way our players came back from behind and responded time after time. We defined perseverance as "attack adversity," and our athletes certainly had their fair share in the game! As Jon Gordon puts it: "Culture is a competitive advantage. A team with a great culture seems to have an extra layer of strength, tradition, resilience, belief and power that is hard to beat." We are proud of our 2019 Spartans!

This year's team has left quite a legacy. Some of the accomplishments include: A National Ranking of 22nd, Max Preps #1 in Oklahoma, the first undefeated season in Bixby's history, the highest scoring offense in Bixby's history, a 25 game winning streak and we have won five of the last six state championships. More important than all of these accolades is the great character and leadership that this group has shown all season long!

Many of you have noticed that our players are beginning to garner post season awards. We See December Update pg. 2

For the sixth consecutive season, we have been fortunate enough to have Thanksgiving morning practice! Each year, it is a special time to give thanks to family and all the wonderful opportunities our players and coaches have been afforded.

This year was another exceptional practice with wonderful weather and a great turnout of parents and alumni. At the end of practice, all of the alumni who attended introduced themselves to the team. It was great to catch up with so many of the Spartans who have helped lay the foundation for the success of our program. Check out the video here! have been attending awards banquets at all of the news stations, and soon the Tulsa World, Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma Coaches Association will announce their All-State teams. Brennan Presley was recently crowned the Oklahoma "Gatorade Player of the Year," not only for what he does on the field, but in the classroom and community. We are so proud of all of our players who are receiving these well-earned awards.

This week our players will order championship rings. Once again, our Quarterback Club will subsidize the cost so that each player will only be responsible for $100 for their ring. Our QBC truly goes above and beyond in providing the very best playing experience for our student athletes.

Hats off to our Spartan Moms and Quarterback Club for pulling off yet another wonderful end of year banquet. It entailed so much work and our Moms were able to pull it off the Monday after the championship game. Truly a difficult feat.

Finally, we are excited to watch many of our players as they head off to second and third sports. Each athlete will continue to "commit to the process through competition and daily strength and conditioning class. We attribute much of our success on the field to the work we put in during the off-season, so please encourage our athletes as we begin another journey. It truly is a great day to be a Spartan!!!

Sincerely,
Coach Montgomery

Congratulations to 2019 Senior Ethan Hall on making his first collegiate catch. It also just happened to be a touchdown!

"Prove the Culture"

Over the course of the season, we have implemented a weekly assessment of power output to monitor the team's recovery, strength levels, and preparedness to train and ultimately compete. Utilizing each athlete's vertical jump and referencing his bodyweight, we can determine an athlete's weekly progress as well as understand our efforts in the development of training programs, recovery protocols and practice demand.

Credit for this project goes to Corey Gray at Southwestern College, Coach Matt Thompson's Alma Mater. His thought process behind this was: "Given the constant stress of the season, fatigue, etc., it's pretty fair to say that if a student can maintain his bodyweight then he will likely be able to "maintain," if not improve, his level of preparation." He goes on to say: "I associate decreases in VJ, in-season, to either an injury or less intake of food and water. In-season player output increases and so should the intake."

This application has been vital for us as a program to understand where the team is at physically to create the best plan of action weekly so that we are able to be at our best on Friday nights. It also has allowed us to find another avenue of competition without being unnecessarily taxing. Lastly, the confidence the athletes feel from either hitting a PR, beating their buddies on the team, or being within our goal of 98% - 100% of bodyweight and vertical jump is contagious and I believe only helps us continually prove our culture of being the very best in Oklahoma at developing student athletes.
