

Conway Baseball Philosophy

The Conway Wampus Cat Baseball Program strives to develop well rounded individuals through the three core values of team, toughness, and competitiveness. These characteristics will be developed daily through practices, workouts, team meetings and games. As the focus will be on developing our three values in all team members, we seek to create an environment of faith and love among all players and coaches, allowing all individuals to confront risk and adversity without fear of failure or judgement.

All members of the Conway Wampus Cat Baseball Program are expected to show up daily with the proper attitude and willingness to develop in the areas of team, toughness, and competitiveness in order to create an environment and culture of faith and love. As teachable moments occur on a daily basis, team members will learn the value of all roles within a team or organization regardless of talent or playing time. Playing time at the varsity level is not guaranteed to any team member, but coaches will make every attempt possible to ensure team members are able to gain game experience at the junior varsity and 9th grade level. Coaches will develop all individuals regardless of level of talent or ability to play at the varsity level. Upon leaving the baseball program, all members will understand and display empathy to all individuals and roles of the team. As communities and organizations look to resilient people who care for the well being of others, we aim to develop individuals who will become leaders of their communities in the future.
